Announcement of Leadership Structure Enhancement

Japan Industrial Partners (JIP) announces that it implemented changes to its leadership structure effective April 1, 2026.

Hidemi Moue, currently Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and Chief Investment Officer (CIO) of Japan Industrial Partners (JIP), will assume the roles of Managing Partner, Chairman, and CIO, while Shinichi Inagaki, currently Managing Director and Executive Vice President (EVP), will assume the roles of Managing Partner and CEO.

In his capacity as CIO, Hidemi Moue will continue to oversee and be responsible for JIP's investment decisions. Shinichi Inagaki, as CEO, will lead the firm's overall management, including deal sourcing and execution. The leadership of the firm will be shared between the two Managing Partners, enabling a more effective allocation of responsibilities and strengthening JIP's management capabilities.

In addition, Katsu Harashima, currently Managing Director, will assume the role of Managing Director and EVP.

This change in leadership structure reflects JIP's continued business expansion. The new leadership framework is intended to further strengthen the firm's investment capabilities, enhance organizational effectiveness, and advance its mission to revitalize Japanese industry through disciplined, focused long-term investment, thereby delivering superior investment returns.
